

The 23rd edition of "Rêves de Gosse" ("Children's Dream") Air Tour will take place between May 31, 2019 through June 8, 2019.

Thanks to this operation, more than 28,000 children from all walks of life (including underprivileged children, children with special needs, and children from ordinary circumstances) will have an opportunity to realize their dreams as they board a small tourist plane for a 20-minute flight. The event is supported by 22 crewmembers and 300 or so volunteers.

A national event, the "Rêves de Gosse" aerial tour is entirely dedicated to the world of children. Its aim is to unite and motivate a diverse population of pilots, children and their parents, youth workers, and teachers who may not otherwise have an opportunity to socialize.

The end goal is to help children with challenges to thrive in society and bridge the gap between them and those born into less challenging circumstances. These groups of children will be brought together during several educational events spread throughout the year, culminating in this final excursion.

Rêves De Gosse

French Aircrafter launches this leg of the journey with Laurent, Alexis and Thibault at the controls, all three of whom are professional, military, or civilian pilots. The crew are devoted to helping these children for 10 days.

QUESTEL, led by Mr. Charles Besson, has provided financial support to the organization by renting the aircraft to be used. "We would like to sincerely thank your company for placing your trust in us."

The next step for the crew is to check out the plane that will be used to escort these children during the flight tour. On Wednesday, May 29, the pilots will depart from the Meaux Elsby Airfield for the first stop: Solenzara in Corsica.

"Without your company, this magnificent event could not take place. For this, we thank you warmly."
